Fresh Meat

DON'T FRET, HUNGRY MEAT LOVERS. TerraBurger, the new organic burger joint on the UT Drag, doesn't exclusively serve vegan patties, although it does offer a yummy one on the menu. Its also offers flavorful, organic burgers with USDA-approved organic beef at affordable prices, not to mention fries and real ice cream shakes. Business partners and Austinites George Walas and Don Craven know it's all about location and convenience, so TerraBurger's Guadalupe Street setting offers a walk-up window from the sidewalk, drive-up service in the back parking lot and indoor seating. Organic and all-natural food products like Organic Prairie beef, Horizon Organic dairy products and Hill Country Springs water cater to the health-conscious hankerings of Austinites. TerraBurgers's earth-friendly stance extends to its business practices as well. The whole restaurant uses compact fluorescent bulbs, the countertops are made of recycled materials, the restrooms feature water-saving dual-flush toilets and only recycled and compostable dishware and packaging is used. So head to TerraBurger and enjoy a guilt-free fast food experience. 2522 Guadalupe St., 436-8570, terraburgeraustin.com. - RAMONA FLUME
